

Aviatrix West Disclaimer

The views presented in the articles, and elsewhere on this website (<https://aviatrixwest.com>), are solely the author's based on available information and personal experiences at the time of writing. The author reserves the right to change her views at any time. The author may update articles at any time without notifying readers. The author will not be liable for any outdated information. The purpose of this blog is to inform readers, not to provide professional advice. Readers are advised to research further and consult relevant professionals, such as flight training schools. Readers are cautioned when acting on information provided and assume all risk from such actions.